MESSAGE FROM THE MANAGING DIRECTOR

Abacus Group and Abacus Storage King recognise that it is important to respond to the social and governance implications of our business activities including the identification of modern slavery risks in our operations, supply chains and business partnerships.

This joint statement demonstrates our ongoing commitment to taking meaningful action against modern slavery. For this reporting period, we focused on strengthening connections with our key contractors and gaining a deeper understanding their supply chains, as we know that modern slavery is a complex issue that requires collective action to address. This year we held our first modern slavery contractor workshop where we invited key construction, maintenance, cleaning, and security contractors to share their experiences in managing modern slavery risks in their businesses with us and their peers in the industry. We were pleased to see that our invited contractors are proactive in their approach in addressing modern slavery through practical mitigation measures. We continue to support our approach through cross-functional collaboration internally as well as externally with our partners and industry peers.

This joint modern slavery statement was reviewed by an independent lawyer and was approved by the following reporting entities in accordance with section 14 of the Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth).

Abacus Group Board in their capacity as governing body of Abacus Trust ARSN 096 572 128 (AT) on 20 November 2024.

This is the fifth joint modern slavery statement prepared by the reporting entities of ABG and ASK. The term 'modern slavery' describes situations of serious exploitation in Australia or abroad such as trafficking in persons, slavery, servitude, forced marriage, forced labour, debt bondage, deceptive recruiting for labour or services, and all forms of child labour. It does not include substandard working conditions or underpayment of workers; however, these practices are also illegal and harmful and may be present in situations of modern slavery. We reject all forms of modern slavery in our operations, supply chain and our business partnerships.

ABG and ASK operate wholly within Australia and New Zealand, countries which have democratic governments with high standards of governance and strong legislative systems that support human rights, national employment standards, privacy, anti-corruption, and non-discrimination. We are committed to implementing and monitoring ongoing practices which support human rights with reference to the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights and the Act.

Our People

At ABG and ASK, our people are a key enabler of our strategy and success. As at 30 June 2024, ABG employed 87 employees in Australia, and Storage King employed 448 employees in Australia and 60 employees in New Zealand. ABG and Storage King do not engage any employees outside of Australia or New Zealand, other than outsourcing of some Storage King accounting and administrative support functions to a team of five employees based in the Philippines. ABG employees work across asset management, leasing, development, as well as corporate functions including finance, legal, people and culture, risk and compliance, information technology, corporate development, and investor relations. ABG employees mainly work at the Abacus Group head office location. At Storage King, our employees are either part of store operations such as store managers and staff who are based onsite, or as part of the management function based in the Storage King head office location. All ABG and Storage King employees who are covered by a Modern Award are paid in accordance with the respective Modern Award that applies.

Our Supply Chains

ABG operates wholly within Australia, and ASK operates both in Australia and New Zealand. Procurement of goods and services are centralised into three main areas:

- Capital expenditures for Commercial and Self Storage assets;
- Operating expenses for the Commercial portfolio; and
- Self Storage operating expenses through ASK's wholly owned subsidiary, Storage King.

Builders and contractors on our development and fit out projects

Managing agents and operational contractors on our Commercial portfolio

The principal supply chains to ABG and ASK include:

PROCUREMENT ITEM

1	Non-residential construction This includes use of building, engineering and fitout contractors based in Australia or New Zealand to undertake construction works. These contractors may source materials locally or from overseas. Capital projects, tenant fitouts, upgrades, and developments for our Commercial assets. Generally, our assets have five-year capital plans to replace key building services such as lifts, security systems, heating and cooling system, electrical and fire systems. These items of plant are usually sourced and installed by major engineering groups. Capital projects, development, and upgrades of Self Storage assets. These are typically less complicated in design compared to Commercial assets with key capital upgrades including security systems, perimeter gates, and storage partitions. Existing Self Storage assets may also be expanded where demand allows, or new Self Storage facilities may be built on vacant land. These capital works will usually be undertaken by major construction groups who project manage the contract from inception to completion including fitout of the storage units and fitout of a retail sales office.
2	Building maintenance and repair services and materials For both Commercial and Self Storage assets, this includes maintenance and repair of lifts, heating and cooling systems, plumbing, fire safety systems, landscaping, doors, and electrical systems through our key maintenance contractors based in Australia and New Zealand. These contractors may source materials locally or from overseas.
3	Security Security contractors who patrol our Commercial, Retail and Storage assets and facilities.
4	Cleaning services and waste management Cleaning contractors who provide general facility cleaning, washroom, and sanitary services.
5	Professional, administrative and corporate services This includes procurement of professional and corporate services such as asset consultants, property management, leasing, legal and advisory services, insurance, registry services, custodian services, travel facilitation, hotel and meeting facilities and other administrative services.
6	Utilities and statutory charges Use of electricity, water, gas and telecommunication services, and payment of statutory charges including council rates and land tax.

Supply Spend

The total supply spend across assets owned and managed by ABG and ASK, where we have operational control, in FY24 was approximately $280 million (inclusive of GST). In FY23, this spend was approximately $240 million (inclusive of GST).

We have identified our high risk categories as:

- Building maintenance and repair services and materials
- Cleaning services and waste management
- Non-residential construction
- Security.

ABG and ASK have approximately 800 suppliers in the identified high risk categories with a spend of approximately $110 million (inclusive of GST). The chart shows the percentage of spend by category within our high risk spend which is factored into our annual risk assessment.

OUR MODERN SLAVERY RISKS

We are alert to the risks to human rights and how our activities at ABG and ASK may potentially cause, contribute to, or be directly linked with instances of modern slavery, as described in the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. In FY24, we conducted our annual risk assessment across our operations and supply chains to review our current understanding of where risks lie. We used the Methodology for the Development of Social Risk Ratings for the Property Council of Australia's Supplier Pre-selection Platform which assigned social risk ratings for key procurement categories within the property sector. These procurement categories accounted for risk to labour rights and decent work, health and safety, human rights, governance, and community infrastructure. We considered these social risk ratings as well as:

- areas of spend across our operations and supply chains
- our supplier relationships and level of influence
- geographic and sector risks
- the nature of products or services supplied.

Risks in our Operations

The risk of modern slavery practices in our operations that ABG and ASK are potentially causing, contributing to, or being directly linked to is considered to be low. This is based on the direct control of our employees, either providing professional services or retail employees based in Australia and New Zealand. All employees are paid in accordance with the prescribed minimum wage applicable to them, or by an applicable Modern Award rate.

Storage King currently engages some of its accounting and administrative support functions through a provider in the Philippines who has a team of five employees. Storage King maintains a close relationship with this provider to ensure that its employees are appropriately remunerated and provided with a safe environment to work. This provides assurance that workplace laws are complied with, the employees are provided with top tier salaries and benefits in the marketplace that are documented in employment contracts. While we consider this relationship to be of low risk, we request this provider to complete an annual modern slavery questionnaire.

Risks in our Supply Chains

We have identified where we may contribute to or be directly linked to modern slavery risks through our procurement of building and construction contractors, maintenance contractors, cleaning and waste management and security. We consider these to be our Priority One high risk areas.

We recognise that the property and construction sectors may be at risk of modern slavery due to a variety of factors as defined in the KPMG and Australian Human Rights Commission's report, Property, construction & modern slavery: Practical responses for managing risk to people (2020), including:

- high demand for a low-skilled labour force
- poor visibility over long and complex supply chains
- low-tier suppliers operating in high-risk geographies
- lack of bargaining rights and grievance mechanisms.

The workforce in the property and construction sectors may be subject to:

- forced or unpaid work
- unsafe conditions
- bonded and child labour
- inadequate accommodation
- passport confiscation
- human trafficking.

In engaging these categories of suppliers, ABG and ASK recognise that we could be directly linked or contribute to modern slavery practices if, for example, the supplier failed to appropriately pay their workers, or forced them to work unreasonable hours outside of agreed times.

Our construction and building maintenance contractors may source construction materials including bricks, cement, glass, steel, tiles, piping, paint, rubber, timber, from countries such as Cambodia, China, Indonesia, India, Pakistan, and the Philippines. One area of concern includes solar panels and the use of Uyghur forced labour across the manufacturing of solar panel components in the Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region (XUAR) of China. Some of our Commercial assets were historically fitted with solar panels with components potentially hailing from XUAR. In FY24, we procured solar panels for four Storage King sites through an existing retailer which has previously provided solar products to ABG. As part of our modern slavery risk assessment, the retailer provided us with the modern slavery statements of the solar product providers they procure from. We were satisfied that the solar product providers have arrangements in place to mitigate modern slavery risk.

In conducting this annual risk assessment, we consider our risk profile to be largely unchanged to FY23 as ABG and ASK's core businesses and procurement activities remain consistent to the last reporting period.

ACTIONS TO ASSESS AND ADDRESS MODERN SLAVERY RISKS

Assessment of Risks in our Operations and Supply Chains

Using the outcomes of the risk assessment, we assessed our high risk categories using a spend threshold of $100,000 in the year to identify our high risk suppliers. This is so we are focused on suppliers where we have the most influence. In FY24, we identified 58 suppliers for review, and we requested them to complete a modern slavery questionnaire on the Informed 365 supplier platform. In January 2024, the questionnaire on Informed 365 was streamlined using the feedback provided by the Informed 365 Property Platform Working Group in which the assessment was reduced by 25% by combining and removing duplicate questions and clarifying response options to make it easier for the supplier to complete the questionnaire. This is important in ensuring our suppliers are not overly burdened in completing the questionnaire as well as ensuring that the questions align with current modern slavery issues. We achieved a 100% completion rate of questionnaires in FY24, in line with our completion rate in FY23. Further information regarding review of these suppliers and their responses are part of the Remediation Processes section of this statement.

Governance

Our approach to modern slavery is underpinned by a Board-led governance structure, in which the Board or Board Subcommittee oversees modern slavery matters to ensure stakeholder interests are promoted and protected. In addition to a clear governance structure, ABG has developed an internal Modern Slavery Working Group comprised of key members of management from across the business. The Modern Slavery Working Group meets regularly to review modern slavery progress and updates.

The Modern Slavery Working Group has representatives from the operational teams such as asset management, facilities management, and developments covering the ABG and ASK business. The Working Group typically meets monthly with a documented agenda and minutes and key issues arising from the working group are escalated to executive meetings within the Group. The Working Group has increased its effectiveness at communicating Modern Slavery risks across the business and sharing best practice for mitigating the risks. For example, Working Group members are taking greater responsibility for managing responses to modern slavery questionnaires and managing areas for improvement directly with their supplier contacts, thereby embedding responsibility across the business and our suppliers. The Working Group draws on resources as required from within ABG and ASK plus external advice through the Property Council of Australia, Informed 365 and sustainability consulting firm Better Sydney.

ABG also has a dedicated Risk and Compliance Officer whose role includes assisting the Modern Slavery Working Group with supplier risk assessments.

 Further information on our governance structure and operations can be found at our website www.abacusgroup.com.au and within our suite of policies and annual reports.

Sustainable Procurement

Sustainable Procurement means considering the ethical, environmental, and social impacts of purchasing decisions and looking for opportunities where outcomes can be enhanced. ABG and ASK are committed to Sustainable Procurement and ensuring high standards in our operations and supply chains in line with the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. Sustainable Procurement includes engaging with suppliers to ensure they operate in a manner consistent with our Supplier Code of Conduct, and ensuring the procurement process adheres to the international standards against criminal conduct and human rights abuses and our obligations under the Act.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES INCLUDE:

The expectation that our team members, contractors, sub-contractors, consultants, and suppliers will conduct business in a safe, responsible, and equitable manner and in compliance with all applicable laws, regulations and standards.

Our team members, customers, suppliers, and investors being treated fairly and respectfully.

Diversity and inclusion, which is about our commitment to ensure collective perspectives are valued and respected, with the objective of enhancing informed judgment and high-quality decision making. Diversity includes, but is not limited to, gender, age, ethnicity, sexual orientation, religious and cultural background.

The right to just and fair remuneration.

The fundamental right of all workers and those affected by our undertaking to a safe and healthy working environment.

Allowing freedom of association and collective bargaining.

THESE COMMITMENTS ARE UPHELD ON AN ONGOING BASIS BY:

Ongoing engagement, education, and awareness with our supply chain.

Conducting annual training for ABG and SK GSS employees in respect of compliance and our Code of Conduct.

Developing and implementing a Supplier Code of Conduct and ensuring all suppliers we work with are made aware of and provided with a copy of the Supplier Code of Conduct.

Sourcing and partnering with reputable suppliers with demonstrated experience.

Incorporating human rights into purchasing decisions and adhering to our Human Rights Policy.

Conducting human rights and modern slavery due diligence into our supply chains on an ongoing basis and ensuring our supply chains are, as far as we are aware, free from modern slavery.

Providing access to an effective grievance mechanism (Whistleblowing Policy) to our team members and supply chain to ensure that any human rights violations are reported, investigated, and remediated.

The following sections outline how we continue to meet our commitments on an ongoing basis.

Ongoing engagement, education, and awareness

All ABG employees and Storage King GSS employees undertake mandatory compliance training each year and this includes specific coverage of modern slavery risks and the key policies set out in our Policy Framework below. All employees sign a declaration to confirm that they have received and reviewed a copy of the Code of Conduct and confirm that they have adhered to the values and requirements of the Code. Our employee training material is assessed annually by an external compliance auditor and areas for improvement are incorporated into subsequent training sessions. A copy of the slides was uploaded on to the intranet for any employee to view after the session.

We collaborate with the Informed 365 supplier platform in promoting transparency and due diligence practices, where the platform hosts a modern slavery questionnaire that is completed by our high risk suppliers annually. An important benefit of the platform is that it reduces the administrative burden on suppliers to complete a questionnaire, as suppliers only need to be onboarded once on the platform, and with their permission, their responses can be shared with other organisations. Throughout the questionnaire there are linked resources relating to modern slavery and human rights, such as guidance on how to identify instances of modern slavery. Pleasingly, as at June 2024, a total of 13,780 suppliers were engaged across all platform users. Our suppliers are also required to read and acknowledge our Human Rights policy, current modern slavery statement and Supplier Code of Conduct at the onboarding stage before they begin works.

In addition, as part of every Property Council of Australia's Modern Slavery Working Group meeting, new or updated modern slavery or human rights related resources of interest to the Group are shared which assists in providing additional guidance as well as understanding whether there are emerging issues that require the Group's attention.

CONNECTING WITH JOINT VENTURE PARTNERS

In FY24, ABG reached out to two of its joint venture partners on assets which we do not have operational control. The objective of the discussion was to share ideas, best practice, and experiences in managing and addressing modern slavery risks within our respective businesses. In our discussions, we found commonalities within our initiatives to address modern slavery risks around the areas of contractor management, procurement of high-quality services, and working with other organisations across sectors within the property industry. This has provided a positive reinforcement of our chosen initiatives. We will continue to maintain an open line of communication with our partners on modern slavery risks particularly on the assets we co-own.

MODERN SLAVERY CONTRACTOR WORKSHOP

In June 2024, ABG and ASK held their first Modern Slavery Contractor Workshop, comprising of key construction, maintenance, cleaning, and security contractors in ABG and ASK's supply chains. The purpose of the workshop was for us to understand the practical experiences of our contractors in addressing the risk of modern slavery in their business and wider industry. It was also an opportunity for our contractors to connect with their peers and engage in thoughtful discussion. The workshop covered the following areas:

- what risks to people and business look like and how progressed the industry is with respect to addressing practices that could contribute to modern slavery
- views on how well their clients are managing the issue of modern slavery in collaboration with their organisation
- practical initiatives implemented by contractors
- usefulness of the Act.

Post-workshop, we received positive feedback from our contractors on the way the workshop was organised and that attendees were able to take away good ideas from their peers, which we consider to be a successful outcome.

Policy Framework

ABG and ASK are committed to clearly communicating to all employees, suppliers, customers, and other stakeholders its expectations and standards in relation to ethical business practices and the promotion of human rights as well as providing clear mechanisms for dealing with potential incidents of modern slavery.

ABG and ASK maintains a policy framework that has been approved by each respective Board. The framework identifies the frequency of review of all policies, the majority of which are reviewed annually, with any changes approved by the Board. Where relevant, policies are reviewed by the team member responsible for the policy in conjunction with external consultants or lawyers as appropriate.

Supplier procurement

In FY24, in addition to our annual modern slavery questionnaire hosted on Informed 365 going out to our high risk suppliers, we required the completion of a modern slavery induction questionnaire at the prequalification stage of our procurement process. This induction assessment is a streamlined version of the annual questionnaire and targets key questions which ABG and ASK considers may indicate potential risks of modern slavery and may require additional information from the supplier prior to us engaging with them. The responses to the induction questionnaire are reviewed at first instance by our Health, Safety and Environment and procurement teams by ensuring that the responses are appropriate and conformant with our expectations. If the responses are unusual, they are flagged to the Modern Slavery Working Group for discussion. No material issues have been identified so far. Our managing agents are also involved in the contractor management system and ensuring that suppliers are following the onboarding process. In addition to the induction questionnaire, we have ensured that all ABG contractors engaged are required to agree to a modern slavery clause within our major or minor works contracts to ensure that at minimum, our contractors are aware of our expectations and ensuring instances of modern slavery do not occur.

FIRE SERVICES TENDER AT STORAGE KING

As part of the fire services tender at Storage King conducted in December 2023, compliance with the Act was included as part of the request for tender pack and capability questionnaire, and as a clause in the contract with the chosen tenderer. The tenderer was required to accept the Supplier Code of Conduct and complete an onboarding form which includes the induction modern slavery questionnaire before starting work for Storage King. In addition, a member of Storage King Risk and Compliance was included in the Tender Committee to ensure that considerations around modern slavery were included.

REMEDIATION PROCESSES

Further supplier reviews

As part of our ongoing due diligence processes, from our pool of high risk suppliers we have selected suppliers with a spend in excess of $250,000 in calendar year 2023 and where their questionnaires have indicated non-conformant responses in order to conduct further reviews. We reduced the threshold from $500,000 in FY23 to $250,000 to capture additional suppliers. The purpose of conducting the review is to gain further clarification on the supplier's responses and also identify opportunities for improvement. The categories of questions we focus on include:

- source of manufactured products or services from overseas that contribute to the delivery of products and services
- whether the organisation has assessed their modern slavery risks
- whether the organisation has a general understanding of modern slavery
- whether the organisation has implemented grievance mechanisms
- outsourcing of recruitment processes and hiring of overseas workers.

In FY24, we identified three suppliers which required further review within the construction sector. The Modern Slavery Working Group members contacted each supplier and all suppliers responded. Upon discussions with each supplier, we assessed that the responses did not indicate to us any material risks of modern slavery. Some positive assertions coming out of the discussion included that:

- all supplier employees are being paid at least by the minimum wage or the Modern Award rate as applicable
- suppliers had a modern slavery policy or similar such as a human rights policy, and had either conducted or were progressing towards a risk assessment of their modern slavery risks
- suppliers had a grievance and complaints mechanism in place, either on an informal or formal basis

We will continue to conduct further reviews in FY25 and collaborate with our suppliers to in order to understand where the risks of modern slavery may lie.

GRIEVANCE MECHANISMS AND INCIDENT MANAGEMENT

ABG and ASK recognise the importance of allowing for worker voice and providing the means for our team members, suppliers, and customers to report any instances of modern slavery or human rights issues. We are committed to ensuring there is trust and transparency in the handling of grievances raised to ensure a safer workplace culture. ABG and ASK partner with 'Your Call', Australia's largest independent whistleblowing provider as a way for our team members and suppliers to report concerns confidentially and anonymously, which are espoused in our Employee Code of Conduct, Supplier Code of Conduct and Whistleblowing policy. If a whistleblower report is raised, it is first addressed by a nominated whistleblower officer and if the report relates to a breach of human rights or modern slavery, it will be flagged to the Modern Slavery Working Group in line with the requirements of the Whistleblowing policy and Human Rights policy. In FY24, there were no whistleblowing reports raised through our whistleblowing scheme, nor were there reports raised directly with ABG or ASK.
